

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

At St. James' church at 8 o'clock on Monday morning Miss Wilfred Laah and Leonard P. Morrison were united in marriage by Rev. John Rutz, M. S., who also was celebrant of the nuptial mass, attended by many relatives and friends of the contracting parties and representatives of many towns in the vicinity.

The bride wore a blue tailored suit and her hair was a picture design with silver trimming and aigrettes. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Alice Besette, also wore a blue tailored gown and a picture hat and her arm bouquet was of pink roses. John Horton attended Mr. Morrison as best man.

After the wedding there was a breakfast and reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rutz in the Davis building. About 50 guests, relatives of the bride and groom and representative of New York, Plainfield, N. J., Atlanta, Norwich, Providence and Baltimore were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrison left during the day for a motor trip through the mountain section of New England and into Canada, where they will visit for the Province of Ontario. Upon their return they will make their home in Danielson.

The bride is a sister of Mrs. Rene Buteau, with whom she has made her home and has been employed by James E. Keach. Mr. Morrison is a World War veteran who has been resident in Danielson and vicinity for a number of years. He is engaged as an automobile salesman by a Putnam firm.

The bride received a great number of beautiful gifts including a number of checks.

Such campaigning as will precede the state election in the town of Killingly will get under way immediately now that the nominees for the various offices to be filled have been named. Monday night's caucus of the republican party completed the nominating of candidates. There are indications that the pre-election work will be active, inasmuch as the democrats are encouraged over the showing they made in the recent town election. This fact will spur the republicans to greater efforts in order that the full vote may be brought out.

Not the slightest trace of the burglars who raided the Church Company store and carried away $5,000 worth of clothing and men's furnishings during the early hours of Friday morning has been found. All hope that the men will be apprehended or the goods recovered has been practically abandoned, as it is realized that the burglars are clever and daring crew and probably have made their way to some large city with their loot.

The Church company made a quick recovery from the loss however and had replaced the stolen goods with new lines within 24 hours after the robbery and have been doing an excellent business in the meantime.

Theft registration plates from his automobile was reported Monday morning by George Beaver, a resident on North Main street. Taken with other happenings of Friday night, the affair is of special interest. On Sunday afternoon just before midnight a prowler who was a stranger and well dressed was ferociously ejected from the rear of a residence about which he was sneaking with no good cause.

Traffic that was described by some drivers as "wicked" marked the use of the new state highway via Little Rock to Providence on Sunday. At some straight stretches on the route drivers reported that as many as 50 cars were in sight at a time.

While the traffic was extremely dense it was orderly and well regulated, few cars speeding at over 25 miles an hour. As a matter of fact, the speed was next to impossible over a greater part of the route because of the fact that what might be described as trains of automobiles were moving in single file, and getting out from behind one machine and on in the lead was something that could be accomplished only at rare times.

As a lively proposition the horse seems to have been discarded by the automobile in Danielson. What was the largest lively stable in Danielson a dozen years ago now has but two horses. Other big stables have gone out of business entirely. "Getting a rig" is an abandoned pastime. The car is the thing. State roads, good public service cars and fast traveling has brought about the change.

Plans for the Armistice Day celebration continue to shape up indications now are that the event will be an important one. An effort is being made to organize a large parade. The fire department will be one of the organizations to participate. Service men's organizations will be prominent in the parade, which will pass through the principal streets of the borough.

Irving W. Davis and Joseph Bodo, as members of the fire committee of the court of burgesses, will investigate and ascertain the amount of new hose needed by the fire department on Sunday to attend the conferring of the Fourth Degree on a class of candidates.

Ray G. Williamson of Providence was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Monday.

J. H. Head of Webster has been engaged by the Danielson Girls' club to coach the cast of a play the club intends to present later in the fall.

The parish house addition to the Westfield Congregational church is up its full height and nearly boarded in. The structure will be completed about December 1st.

Numbers of families in town have been supplied with a ton of coal and more fuel will be available very promptly. The freeze which winter seems to be about over, though few have a full season's supply of coal.

Members of Killingly grange will be entertained by members of Plainfield grange this evening.

All of those who would like to attend an evening school should have their applications in the hands of Superintendent Leon M. Farrin by Thursday of this week.

Assessors of the town of Killingly began receiving lists on Monday. All lists of taxable property should be in their hands by November 1, if property holders would escape the 10 per cent. penalty for failing to make a return.

Rayville Woman's Democratic club has been formed with Mrs. Luther Day as president.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of Norwich will be here this (Tuesday) morning to conduct a tuberculosis clinic at the health station in the town hall building.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Surrey have been spending a few days visiting with relatives in Newport.

PUTNAM

The stage is all set for the election of November 7. Caucuses held in all of Windham county towns during Monday by the republicans furnished the candidates of that party for judge of probate, representatives in the legislature, and justices of the peace. It is indicated that the democrats intend to make a snappy fight for their state ticket this year, so the republicans in this normally republican senatorial district will be busy from now until election day with their effort to keep the interest of voters at high pitch and to go them out to the polls on November 7.

At St. Mary's Church Monday morning Miss Helen L. Bashaw and Leon A. Talbot were united in marriage at a nuptial mass at 8 o'clock by Rev. W. Arthur Reuther. Miss Bashaw was attended by Miss Viola Lynch of Dudley and Clarence Lynch of Dudley was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Talbot left during the day for a motor trip through the White mountains and other points in northern New England. Upon their return they will live in their newly furnished home in Ring street.

The bride for several years has been employed in the store of Charles Sedar. Mr. Talbot, a world war veteran and one of the well known young men of the city, is associated with his father, Chauncey Talbot, in the operation of the Putnam News Company store on Union street.

Monday morning the body of Mrs. Josephine M. Chapin arrived here from East McKeesport, Pa. where Mrs. Chapin died on Friday, and was taken to West Thompson for burial, the service at grave conducted by Rev. Stephen T. Livingston. Mrs. Chapin was 81 years of age and for many years was a resident of the Town of Thompson, where her husband, now dead, was proprietor of a hotel.

Leon A. Talbot, president of the L. A. W. Acceptance corporation, and one of the owners of the newly completed Wolf and Kaminsky building in Main street, has removed the offices of the Acceptance corporation from its former quarters over Dresser's store to the new building, which is nearly filled with tenants. The new business block was constructed during the past summer.

Secretary J. H. Corbett of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. stated Monday that many activities are being planned for the fall and winter season and that the work will be in full swing within a short time. One of the things of interest to members is a state gathering to be held in the near future at New Britain. Delegates will be in attendance from each organization in the county.

Mention should be made of the observance of Columbus Day by Cargill Council, Knights of Columbus of this city on Thursday evening of last week. Many were gathered at their rooms in Union street and among the features was a brief address by the mayor. Only one candidate claimed the attention of Judge M. H. Geisler at Monday morning's session of the city court. A man charged with having been intoxicated in the streets was fined $20 and costs, which was paid. In a week nine persons charged with intoxication have been before the city court.

Fishermen herabouts have shown more than ordinary interest in the prospect of fish being removed from Woodstock lake, from which water for this city comes. The point seems to have been missed by many, however, that the fish are not destroyed by representatives of the fish and game commission, but are kept alive and transferred to waters of the state where fishing is allowed.

Work of the school year at the Maret school for young ladies, in the town of Thompson, is now fully established. As a matter of fact, the school is representative of many parts of the United States. It is planned to erect additional buildings at the school next year, the work to start in the spring.

Of local interest is the fact that Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ballard of Davenport, Iowa, observed the 50th anniversary of their marriage on Sunday. The couple were married in Thompson, October 15, 1872. Mrs. Ballard was Miss Martha Blackmar, a sister of Miss Mary Blackmar of Thompson.

Defeat of the Nightingale-Morse baseball team in the second game of the Danielson-Putnam series at Danielson on Sunday evens up the affair with a victory each for the teams and leaves the deciding game in which there is unusual late season interest to be played as what probably will be the final diamond event of the year in this territory.

It so happens that both republican candidates for state senator from districts of Windham county come from towns in this immediate neighborhood.

Judge Clarence H. Clark being the party candidate for this district, his home being in Woodstock, and John Ash of Pomfret, candidate in the 29th district.

An operation that will result in greatly improving the highway between Phoenixville and Eastford is underway. A rock foundation is being put in on this highway, which is a main artery of travel in that section of the country. Work is progressing on the rebuilding of the state highway between Putnam and Pomfret, but considerable more time will be required for the completion of this work.

Employers state that a shortage of common labor is beginning to be felt in this territory and that it is only with difficulty that men can be obtained at the present time for certain classes of work. This is taken as indicating that higher wages are in sight for this class of labor.

Thousands of employers in cotton mills of the Quinebaug valley are now receiving the advanced wages announced to take effect this month. Merchants report that the higher wages and the confidence in the future has resulted in freer buying, although warm weather during October has seemed to check the fall trade to some extent.

Putnam Lodge of Masons of Woodstock has purchased a strip of land near the entrance to the Woodstock Fair grounds and also has purchased the building known as the Phillips building in the same locality. The building is to be repaired and materially improved.

A representative of the state motor vehicle department will be in Putnam today to issue operators' licenses to those applicants who qualify for the same.

Numbers of roadside refreshment stands that have been operating throughout the season on state highways in this territory have now been closed until spring excepting that they are open for week-end business.

Progress is being made on the new building being constructed for Rawley and Twigg on Front street near South Main. The structure is of brick.

Town Clerk and Mrs. David Flagg will leave today for a motor trip to Baltimore, where they will visit their son, Joseph Flagg.

A meeting of the Woodstock League of women voters was held Monday afternoon with Miss Blanche Steutgen as hostess.

GALES FERRY

The selectmen of the town of Ledyard, Calvin R. Main, J. Edward Norman and Leslie P. Gray and Town Clerk William I. Allen, with Registrars of Voters Billings T. Avery and G. A. Montgomerie, were in session at the County Club house Saturday afternoon, October 14, from 2 to 5 o'clock, to make voters and to receive old voters who wished to be restored to the list here, in the second year of their registration.

They will again be in session here, next Saturday afternoon, at the same place and at the same hours. A number availed themselves of this opportunity.

Below is the text taken from Rev. W. D. Woodward in the M. E. church Sunday morning the theme being Christian Perfection. Rev. Mr. Woodward announced that the securing of the $100 fund for the erection of a new 20,000 other churches, in Methodism, for century relief was progressing well. Rev. Mr. Woodward read an invitation from Rev. Henry W. Hubbard, pastor of the Congregational church, Groton, to the congregation, to attend special services in that church the coming week and week-end.

At the Sunday school session a rehearsal of the Rally Day Call, a special programme of recitations and songs was held in place of the lesson study. Rally day will be observed the next week, Sunday the 22nd, and it is hoped all will be present with their friends.

Richard H. Chase was the leader of the Epworth League evening service with the topic, Abandon All. At the Epworth League offering for the century fund unit apportioned this M. E. church of $100 was completed.

Rev. D. F. Dodd of Chisholm, China, will speak in the M. E. church on the Missionary Problem, and the Life in China, to promote interest in the century at the Sunday morning service, October 28.

Tracy H. Smith found Saturday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Latham E. Smith of Rose Lawn farm near the village, while digging potatoes, an open faced gold watch that he lost while plowing the same field fourteen years ago. The watch was a new one then and every effort was made to find it. Saturday without searching, he found it. The gold is untarnished and the works look perfect and the stem winder is in good condition. The crystal and the hands are gone. Mr. Smith will have it put in condition for service.

Connecticut College Convocation

The yearly programme of Convocation lectures which has become one of the features of interest at Connecticut college has been completed and copies are available for the public and friends of the college. That there is a growing sense of appreciation for the development of this work which the institution seeks to share with the public, is evinced by the fact that records show between eight and nine thousand persons in attendance during the series last year. Likewise, the adjustment of weekly club meetings indicates a responsive and appreciative spirit of co-operation.

In presenting the new programme, the Huge umbrellas decorated with the Girls' Friendly colors, old blue and gold, decorated the ceilings, in the living room and library. Ribbon streamers, decorated with bluebirds in flight, were attached to the gifts in the umbrellas already to rain upon the recipients.

Miss Mary Whittier, whose wedding was celebrated in the library Miss Hitchcock received the same sort of a pleasure in the living room. The gifts were very beautiful. Music followed and the committee, Miss Lois Manning, Miss Rose Matassa, Miss Lila Smith, Miss Marion Gibbs, Miss Cecil Stevens and Miss Olive Bishop served fancy cakes and ices.

The wedding cake was cut and Miss Rose Matassa received the wedding ring. Miss Dorothy Harvey the engagement ring. Miss Florence Sherry the piece of silver. It looks as if none of the members are going to enjoy a life of single blessedness, spoken of by some, as no one drew the unlucky number.

Miss Bishop is to be congratulated on the successful way she managed to have each girl share in the preparations.

Vaudeville at Broadway Theatre.

The B. P. Keith, 5 acts, vaudeville attraction at the Broadway theatre for the first half of this week consists of: Buck Pierlot and Abbie Schofield Co. in their comedy offering "Helping Hubby". Pierlot is an exceptionally good juggler and his partners are excellent comedienne. The man proceeds with his difficult stunts while his partners bombard him with a running fire of chatter.

Joe Nearing is a blackface comedian. One of the burnt cork comedians have not been seen here for some time. He wears a burnt cork on his face, up for it with his sure fine comedy.

Van, Dyke & Vincent offer "It's All in the Breaks." This is a comedy singing and talking act, comprising the three essentials to make a good act. The man in this act, Mr. Van Dyke, is one of the best known comedians in this country and he is showered with applause.

Lillian Morton is called "A Pocket Edition Comedienne." She has a fine line of comedy to help sell and keeps all in good humor. She has a wonderful personality and an act of this kind has not been seen here in some time.

Blanchette & Devere in "Little Bits of Big Hits." The feature picture stars Elaine Hammerstein in her latest release, "Under Oath."

Masterpiece of Stage and Screen Has Premier at the Strand.

The clean, tangy aroma of the Northwoods fairly floats from the screen at the Strand theatre, where the Universal-Jewel attraction "The Storm" is being shown this week. It was greeted with real enthusiasm at the premier last night and it is safe to say it was among the really great photoplays of the decade.

A powerful story to begin with, the scenic investment of the great snow storm scene, and the forest fire, make it a marvel of stage-craft on the screen. It realizes why it established a record as one of the finest productions ever staged on the legitimate theatres. The film has duplicated in New York and elsewhere the success of George Eastman's and Langdon McCormick's star.

House Peters, star of a dozen famed portrayals, and one of the most popular actors of the day, handles the leading male role in a masterful manner. The performance of Virginia Valli—who plays opposite to Peters—likewise standing forth as one of the brightest gems in her crown of successes.

It was a thoroughly against a background of deep-timbered valleys, long trails of silent forests, and the awesome white of a winterbound country. Against this scenery, perfect acting, its ruggedness alone in a series of dramatic moments, each greater and more thrilling than its predecessor, until the final dynamic fire scene in which the spectator is almost swept away.

The third angle of the triangle is played by Matt Moore, and this finished actor gives a flawless interpretation that makes one hate him even while they realize that he is only playing a character.

Joseph Swickard, Frank Launing and Gordon McGee handle the other three supporting roles in excellent style. While the cast is not large the action is all the more dramatic for the concentration of parts. Reginald Barker, producer of the "Old Nest" and other famous photoplays, directed the screen version of Langdon McCormick's success.

A Comedy and News will also be substituted. You'd better start early if you want to see this super production in comfort.

Broad Theatre

Dorothy Dalton as a blonde! And Wanda Hawley, blonde and blonde, as a sister, with John Davidson, dark, as a villain of "Fool's Paradise," to stir up trouble! These are the elements of drama, of which there is plenty in "The Woman Who Walked Alone."

George Melford Paramount production which is drawing big crowds at the Broad theatre.

This picture is one which carries you from London drawing rooms to the South African veldt, and involves the central character, Iris Champneys, in a succession of dramatic situations. It is a role which will go down as one of Miss Dalton's most appealing portrayals.

Milton Sills is excellent as the leading man, and the support including Charles Ogle, Max Baer, and Lefty Flynn, Harris Gordon, and Cecil Holt, land in far above the average. The screen version by Will M. Ritchey is based on a story by John Coken.

"The Woman Who Walked Alone" will be the feature again today at the Broad and other pictures on the bill include the Pathe News and a Sorely Comedy.
